Dear General Wright:

I should like to express our sincere appreciation to you and to the Rome Air Development Center for the substantial contribution made during 1956 in connection with research being undertaken by this Agency to develop elements of an early warning system. As you know, this research and development is of considerable importance to the Intelligence Community and the work done at Rome was essential to the project.

Please extend our appreciation also to Colonel James W. Anderson, Jr., and Dr. Karl Nordstrom for their fine technical work and for their personal interest and cooperation.

Sincerely,

SIGNED

Dear General Wright:

During 1956, Rome Air Development Center undertook an experimental project (QMC 43 F) on our behalf and in support of an R&D project of considerable importance to us as well as to the Air Force and the National Intelligence Center. The R&D project is intended to provide, ultimately, elements of early warning, as you will probably recall.

Since the project at Rome is technically completed, though we look for further assistance of a consultative variety from RADC, may I take this occasion to extend our sincere thanks to you and the Center for the work accomplished during 1956? I hope that you will also convey our thanks to Col. James W. Anderson, Jr. and Dr. Earl Nordstrom, of the Directorate of Intelligence and Electronic Warfare, with particular reference to their substantial technical contributions and their personal interest and cooperation.

C. P. Cahill
